The government is scheduled to publish the results of the 2025 primary scholarship examinations on Sunday.

For publishing the results officially, the primary and mass education ministry is scheduled to hold a press conference at the International Mother Language Institute on the day.

The primary and mass education minister ANM Ehsanul Hoque Milon is expected to attend the conference.

Following the publication of results tomorrow, guardians will be able to access the results online and via mobile SMS.

The official platform for viewing results online is the IPEMIS portal, as per the directorate.

Earlier the results were scheduled to be published formally on Thursday.

But on Thursday morning, the partial results belonged to nine districts under Dhaka division — Manikganj, Faridpur, Tangail, Shariatpur, Narsingdi, Narayanganj, Madaripur, Kishoreganj, and Munshiganj — were uploaded on the Directorate of Primary Education's official website.

The ministry on Friday suspended the directorate's assistant maintenance engineer Md Mahtab Kayes — a 9th-grade officer — for allegedly uploading the partial results on the directorate's official website before they were formally published by the appropriate authorities.
